Science Immersion 2019: Applications Now Being Accepted

Are you an early career graduate student in the fields of Agriculture and Life Sciences? Would you like to get a leg up by learning the skills you need to succeed at each stage of the research lifecycle? Please consider applying for the Library's Science Immersion Program, an intensive, three-day series of workshops on research skills for graduate students. The program will be held in Mann Library from January 9-11, with lunch provided. Can't make those dates? Check out our recorded sessions from 2018 @ tinyurl.com/ScienceImmersion2018.

New Mann Library Help Desk Open for Business

It's been a busy summer of renovations at Mann Library, and we're finally done! With our first floor now nicely put back together, we are back in full swing for the new school year.

(RDMSG) at Cornell University Library is pleased to announce the launch of the Data Storage Finder, a self-service, interactive tool to help discover and evaluate data storage options. Cornell researchers can answer questions about their data needs to identify services based on features important to them, choose just those services they want to learn more about, or explore and compare them all, in one easy-to-use webpage:

Textbook Reserve Requests: Now Open to Students

Cornell University Library is pleased to announce a pilot student-initiated textbook reserve program that will allow students to request any textbook for course reserve at any of our libraries. When the Library adds a book to current reserves holdings as part of this process, it will be available for short-term loan (typically 2 hours) for anyone with a current Cornell ID.

New Doings at the mannUfactory Makerspace

Working on making something besides a paper or a presentation (whether left over from the summer or starting new for the fall)? As of August 23, the mannUfactory makerspace is open for longer hours with more staff! We're also offering additional equipment and new opportunities to learn, supporting more classes and workshops (informal and formal), and soliciting community feedback.

from all walks of life in other Portals across the United States and around the world. Take a peek, listen in, or stay awhile and strike up conversations about what's on your mind—from music to immigration, from food to translation.

Housed in a gold-painted shipping container just outside Olin Library on the Arts Quad, the Cornell Portal runs from late August to early November. In the first week of its launch, more than four hundred Cornellians visited the Portal and met with people from as close as Andover and Milwaukee to as far away as Herat and Nairobi. The project is coordinated by Cornell University Library and sponsored by the Office of the Vice Provost for International Affairs and the Office of Engagement Initiatives. The Center for Teaching Innovation and the Office of Engagement Initiatives are also working with faculty in using the Cornell Portal for class projects. Visit our FAQ page.
